Witness Tells How a Note From Gaynor Prevented a Bid Being Put In.

(By Associated Press.) SAVANNAH, GA., February 20.--Juror

Samuel R. Patterson, whose indisposition necessitated a recess in the Creen-Gaynor case yesterday, was very much better to-day and the trial of the case was resumed.

The testimony given by Assistant Engineer E. R. Conant, in regard to a difficulty which he had in 1892 with Captain A. J. Twiggs, when the latter struck him and testimony given by Captain Twiggs in reference to an interview which he had with John F. Gaynor in Savannah in 1891, in which Gaynor in Savannah in 1891, in which Gaynor in Savannah in 1891, in which Gaynor in Gaynor and together with a spirited argument as to the admissibility of certain testimony by Captain Twiggs relative to the manner in which Carter "put the screws to him," constituted the main points of interest in the trial for the day.

Twiggs said he came to Savannah in September, 1891, and saw John F. Gaynor at one of the hotels. He said Gaynor told him he understood Twiggs was going to bid on the contract, and suggested that they might come to terms. Gaynor said he thought Greene and Gaynor cught to have all the work in the district, and agreed to take all stone required from quarries near Augusta, owned by Twiggs. He paid Twiggs $500 bonus. If Twiggs were eliminated, Gaynor told him, he said, then there would be no other bidder than Greene and Gaynor cought to have all the work in the district, and agreed to take all stone required from quarries near Augusta, owned by Twiggs. He paid Twiggs $500 bonus. If Twiggs were eliminated, Gaynor told him, he said, then there would be no other bidder than Greene and Gaynor. According to Twiggs, the following conversation ensued:

"You are 'noistaken," said Twiggs. "Deming, of Augusta, intends to bid."

"Are you sure?" saked Gaynor.

The witness said he was sure, where-upon Gaynor rang for a messenger and pencilled a note, saying he would fix that. Thereupon he sent the note, and in a short time the messenger returned with a reply, This Gaynor read, appeared satisfied, and said: "There will be no other bids." and tore the reply into small bits.

District Attorney Erwin told Mr. Twiggs to tell how he was oppressed by Carter in the carrying out of the defense objected, and for an hour the qu argument that Twiggs was merely a means to an end, and that the conspiracy means to an end, and that the conspiracy itself was set forth in the indictment with sufficient fullness. He had proposed to Venable Brothers, of tlanta, with whom the defendants and Carter worked a most iniquitous scheme.

The argument had not been concluded when court adjourned until to-morrow.

SAYS MURDER IS HONORABLE CRIME

Moran admitted that he had been arrested on a charge of vagrancy, and when asked if, when the charge was dismissed, it was not upon his promise to leave the town, he said; "Well, I was going away anyway." He said he knew Jopes well, and that the former valet of Rice had told him that neither he nor Patrick was reponsible for the death of Rice. Jones told him also that he was so hounded by the police in New York that he put the blame on Patrick to save himself.

Robert Lee, of Houston, Texas, who testified yesterday, was recalled by Mr. Jerome. He said he had known Valet Jones since March, 1905, and that the latter had told him Patrick was not guilty, and he hoped he would not simfer. Lee admitted having been arrested in Houston for intoxication before he came North.

Adjournment then was taken until temorrow.

neeses for the packers during the hearing of the immunity pleas now in progress. Edward Morris, Edward Switt and Arthur Meeker, representatives, respectively, of the packing firms of Nelson Morris & Company, Swift & Company and Armour & Company, all testified that Garfield had told them that his department had the power to compel information of they refused to give it willingly.

Mr. Garfield to-day on the stand declared that he had never made such a statement. He also denied that he had ever promised immunity to the packers, saying that the only protection that had been promised was protection for the individual firms of their confidential figures. This, be said, had been given them, and although the average of these confidential figures had been given in the report of the commission on the best industry, individuals had been respected and their names had not been given. He also denied positively that he promised that all information would be regarded as confidential. He also denied that he had at any time said anything regarding an oath in connection with the investigation.

Mr. Garfield was the first witness for the government, the packers having rested their case after having secured the admission as evidence of President Roosevelt's letter to the Attorney-General, which stated that the Bureau of Corporations and the Department of Justice were working together.
